ADDITIONAL IMPRISONMENT TERMS

Rocky J. Fogler is completely deaf. His inability to communicate has resulted in multiple disadvantages to him and repeated incidents where others have initiated or fostered conflict and disruptive behavior which has made his life extremely difficult, even by traditional prison standards. At sentencing, it was reported that SeaTac has one or more sign language qualified personnel available who can handle and work constructively with a defendant having the types of hearing and related difficulties being experienced by Mr. Fogler.

Assuming SeaTac has qualified sign language personnel, Mr. Fogler should be carefully considered for placement at that facility or at a suitable medical facility where his multiple problems can be addressed and his ability to communicate enhanced with a goal towards making communication easier while lessening tension in a confined setting. Mr. Fogler reportedly has had significant drug problems in the past. The Court recommends careful consideration for placement in the 500 hundred hour drug treatment program if he is otherwise eligible. Placement in the general prison population, based on information presently available, suggests that he will have ongoing difficulties with little progress towards acquiring the communication and social skills necessary to avoid adverse behavioral problems and institutional difficulties relating directly to the defendant's history.
